Christmas Candles

This year's candle shades made of gay silks of crepe paper are shown in such variety that every one may be pleased. Sparkling silver tinsel strays over some of them, adding a holiday glitter to the pretty colors through which the light gleams. A shade decorated in this way is shown at the right of the two pictured. At the left a foundation of plain paper is covered with ruffles of crepe paper in two alternating colors. In this case white and green, and has daisies made of paper set about it.

Santa Remembers Baby

Santa Claus never forgets the babies and each year presents their little belongings made in new and pretty ways. This year "nightingales" and bonnets seem even better than their predecessors. A set to match is shown above, made of fine flannel and trimmed with narrow satin ribbon gathered along one edge and feather-stitched down. A frill of narrow lace finishes the cap.

mouth recently, together with the boys' report in "The Dartmouth," the college publication December 8, '22

Dear Mr. Winslow:-
No sir, I haven't forgotten about you people up in Island Pond or anything of the kind. In fact my spirit has been with you all a great deal since I got back to Hanover. However, I have been so blamed busy with other things, including Thanksgiving that I have not had a minute to drop you a line.

The first thing I wish to state is that I, Stan and myself want to thank you, the boys the ministers, and the parents, for the reception and treatment we received at your hands. It was fine, and we appreciate it. You ran your end of the trip to perfection and if results do not come the blame is all on us. We had every opportunity and I hope we used at least a little of it.

I have sent up to you a Dartmouth banner with the compliments of the team. Now I want this banner put up in the rooms of the Boys' Club. Tell the boys that the spirit behind it is "I want to be a man and play a clean game of life, and I will try hard to go to a College." That's what I want to mean to them.

I hope that banner will serve as an incentive for the boys to work together for the good of their Club. And if the club fails, tear the banner down and send it home.

Before long, I hope to be able to send or to write to some of the fellows personally, but until then give them all a whack on the back for me and tell them to keep going.

Sincerely yours,
Paul G. Sanderson

Quoted from "The Dartmouth"
D.C.A. MEN COMPLETE FIRST DEPUTATION TRIP
Team of three visits Island Pond, Vermont community and works among Y. M. C. A. Boys.

The first deputation team to be sent out by the Dartmouth Christian Association this year, returned early this week from a three day trip to Island Pond, Vt. The team consisted of P. G. Sanderson, '21, associate secretary of the D C A, J. A. Rippel '23 and S. G. Litchfield '25.

Island Pond, a railroad community with a population of 2000 has organized a community boys club under the leadership of H W Winslow, Y M C A secretary, and it was for the purpose of helping out with this work that the three D C A men were sent.

The team spent Friday afternoon and Saturday in making the acquaintance of the boys in the community. Saturday night a banquet was held at which the opportunities of a college education were presented to 100 boys. Sunday morning the members of the team preached in the three churches of the town, and in the afternoon at a mass meeting for boys the team made an appeal for right living and Christian thinking. In the evening the men talked to a union meeting of the three churches on subjects pertaining to community co-operation.

A fine bookcase filled with books has been presented the Boys' Club by Cecil McKenney. Certainly the fellows appreciate this generosity.

There is still need of pictures, virotra, records, magazines, etc., and anyone contributing these articles will be warmly thanked by the Boys' Committee.

News of Interest to Boys
The following phrases from Mr. Benn's letter to Mr. Winslow is quoted, showing some of the results of the Conference just held in Maine.

"I regretted in a way not being home when you called, but on the other hand wished you could have been with me at the Older Boys Conference at Lewiston. It was a worth-while conference and some 200 boys decided to accept Jesus Christ as their Saviour for the first time; some 95 decided to go back and teach Bible Classes; 70 or more to give up some bad habit, and 70 or 80 more to consider Christian service as a life work. I feel sure that you will excuse my absence under the circumstances. More than 1000 boys were enrolled."

This paragraph shows how worth while it will be for Island Pond boys to tie up with a similar Conference.

Tuesday evening at 7:30, December 19th, a Mock Trial will be put on by Mr. B. J. Conroy at the Y. A good time is promised and every one is invited. It will be remembered that two years ago Ben successfully conducted such a trial and this year promises to be even better. The Second World Conference of Y M C A workers among boys will be held at Port Chace-am-See, Austria, May 30 to June 30, 1923. There will be more than 600 delegates from some 40 or more nations. The purpose is to discuss the place of boyhood in the life of the nation, in the future of the Y and the strategy of the extension of the Kingdom of God.

The Old Bears' Cubs had a bean and dog supper Saturday night. There were three Bears and 23 Cubs present. Some party! The party was in charge of Gerald Ladd. Plenty of eats, jazz music and colored waiters were special features where joy prevailed. Mention should be made here of the picturesque appearance of Dale Maxwell, Hubert Sloan and Leo Daley. They wore large white aprons and blouses, red ties, and had well blackened faces to set off appearances. Some waiters! Charlie Boardway was official photographer.

KNOW LITTLE ABOUT AMERICA

Traveler Tells of Odd Beliefs That Are Prevalent Among Even Well-Educated Europeans.

Austin Stack, minister of home affairs in the former cabinet of Eamonn de Valera, tells of some of the curious impressions regarding life in the United States still prevailing among Europeans. "Among other curious beliefs is that every one who lives in America, particularly in the Western states, must be a cowboy. I find that many people habitually refer to residents of the Far West as 'cowboys' in a figurative sense, and I suppose that accounts for part of the notions that are circulated."

Mr. Stack recounted a story told to him by a friend from Butte, Mont., who was entertaining a visitor from Europe. The visitor expected to see the streets of Butte built and peopled along the lines shown in the erstwhile popular western movie, and his host noticed that he seemed to be constantly on the lookout for some one or something.

"Finally," Mr. Stack said, "the visitor turned to his host and asked: 'But where are all the cowboys?'"

"Oh, they are never seen in the daytime," the other replied. "They are very shy. They only come out at nights, like the gnomes."

And the visitor believed it, Mr. Stack claims.

WHY PEOPLE "BREAK DOWN"

Burden as a General Thing Was Not Too Heavy, but the Load Was Put on Wrong Place.

People are breaking down in health all the time. And as the business man, the housewife and the student fall by the roadside the public dolefully exclaims: "The load was too heavy!" As a matter of fact people break down, not because the load they are carrying is too great, for in nine cases out of ten they could carry more than they are asked to, but because they don't know how to get the load on. Dr. Joel E. Goldswold writes in the Designer. They put the pack on in the wrong place and then the human machine is used in such a way that a great deal of their energy is required to overcome what would mechanically be called friction.

When the nation's young men and women have been taught to use their bodies correctly and are standing up straight many of the problems facing the country today will have been solved. There will be fewer instances of break-down in the cell and the office and the home. People will carry their loads easily and the development of their bodies will make it possible for them to know the fullest joy that life can give.
